“Brother Posey and I had some good times and conversations together. He was a man I could trust and could also entrust things to. I often thought of Wayne and Fay as kinfolk. He will be missed by all who loved a Christian Man with integrity. If you were afraid of the truth, it was best you didn't Wayne, because he would answer with his understanding of the truth, (not his truth) but facts and faith. I really don't think we will be long separated from him and many of our family and friends who have gone before us. So, keep looking up dear child of God and labor while there is light and time.
